

Religious and Scientific Perspectives on the Environment

Thursday, February 13th @ 6 pm

Granite Peak Unitarian Universalist Congregation, 882 Sunset, Prescott

Rev. Patty Willis and Dr. Stefan Sommer will present the current issues being brought by Climate Change and our spiritual and human responsibilities in the face of this global crisis. Rev. Willis studied at the Earlham School of Religion, a Quaker seminary in Richmond, Indiana and is the minister at Granite Peak Unitarian Universalist Congregation. Dr. Sommer is Director of Education at the Merriam Powell Center for Environmental Research at NAU, and his doctoral work is in ecological sustainability.

There will be an opportunity to ask questions and join a discussion of these fundamental challenges in the face of climate change.

This is a free community event.
